

Help Hatch stop canine epilepsy!

Hatch was a service dog for Jessica. He worked as a Seizure Alert/Autism Assistance service dog until epilepsy ended his service career and his special relationship with Jessica and took him from the person who counted on him. At 8 weeks old Hatch began his training. At 2 years old Hatch entered into full time service. At 4½ years old Hatch started seizing and was diagnosed with epilepsy

Hatch gave blood for Aussie epilepsy research. Have you given a blood sample yet from your affected dog? Help Hatch and save our breed from this devastating disease. Blood samples from affected dogs are needed! To submit a blood sample from your dog please go to www.tobysfoundation.org/samples.htm and click on the link for the University of Minnesota for the information, instructions and forms that you will need to submit a blood sample.

News: Hatch's "mom" Diana Higgs was the winner of a special drawing held to benefit Toby's Foundation in the fight against Canine epilepsy.
